Date: June 2026

1. Introduction

This project analyzes marketing campaign performance using the Bank Marketing Dataset. The objective is to evaluate conversion rates, identify customer segments with higher conversion potential, and provide recommendations to improve marketing effectiveness.

2. Dataset Overview

The dataset contains customer demographic information, campaign details, contact methods, and conversion outcomes.

Key attributes include:

- Age
- Job
- Marital Status
- Education
- Contact Method
- Campaign Month
- Subscription Outcome (Yes/No)

3. Objectives

- Measure overall conversion performance.
- Analyze conversion rates across customer segments.
- Identify high-performing marketing channels.
- Discover opportunities to improve campaign effectiveness.

4. Analysis Performed

KPI Analysis

- Total Contacts
- Total Conversions

- Conversion Rate

Segment Analysis

- Conversion by Contact Method
- Conversion by Month
- Conversion by Age Group
- Conversion by Job
- Conversion by Marital Status
- Conversion by Education

5. Key Findings

- The dataset contained 45,211 customer records.
- Total successful conversions were 5,289.
- Overall conversion rate was approximately 11.7%.
- Cellular contact methods generated the highest number of conversions.
- Customers aged 30–50 represented a significant share of conversions.
- Conversion performance varied across occupations and education levels.
- Certain months showed stronger campaign performance than others.

6. Recommendations

1. Prioritize high-performing contact channels such as cellular communication.
2. Focus marketing efforts on customer segments with higher conversion rates.
3. Optimize campaign timing based on monthly performance trends.
4. Develop targeted strategies for different occupations and education groups.
5. Improve follow-up processes to increase customer engagement and conversions.

7. Conclusion

The analysis provides valuable insights into customer conversion behavior and marketing performance. By focusing on high-performing channels and customer segments, businesses can improve conversion rates and achieve better marketing outcomes.
